Mitch Dorger, EMBA, Executive Consultant

Mitch brings to this consulting practice more than 40 years of work experience, including 20 years as the chief executive officer of organizations as large as 1800 people with operating budgets up to $100 million. His work experience encompasses a wide range of functional areas, including aviation, international relations, program planning and budgeting, facility and installation management, crisis management, government relations, event management, and sports management.

His experience as a chief executive officer was consistently characterized by successful performance improvement programs and high employee morale and achievement. Mitch is a collaborative leader who facilitates consensus building and goal setting. As a senior manager, he also oversaw the efforts of numerous consulting efforts, so he has a keen appreciation for the high expectations of management in such arrangements.

With special expertise in the world of non-profit organizations, Mitch is well versed in corporate governance, volunteer management, financial planning and management, government relations, and event management. He also has first-hand experience in managing executive transitions.

An accomplished public speaker, Mitch has lectured at the graduate degree level on non-profit organizational management, strategic planning, change management, and leadership. As a keynote speaker for four different association conventions, he has shared his experiences and lessons learned over the course of his career.

Mitch holds a B.S. Degree from the United States Air Force Academy, an M.A. in International Relations from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, and an M.A in Management and an Executive MBA from Claremont Graduate University. He is also a distinguished graduate of the Air Forces Command and Staff College and was a National Security Research Fellow at the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University.
